Dear Anderson,

Having now seen the first two parts of your week-long bash, your pre-emptive “this is not about the beliefs or activities of the Church of Scientology” qualifier is emptier than it was when all we had was the pre-airing spin of your... headline.

And so, what can we expect but more-of-same then for the rest of the week?

The strategy is clear: keep repeating the allegations and eventually people will make their own assessments that Scientology is bad, never mind that you have never given one shred of evidence except for wildly contested claims of disgruntled ex-Scientologists.

Sea Org members are men and women of good will. And grating as it may sound, we can bear up to the attack and we will endure.

Sincerely,

T.P.
